COURSE	DESCRIPTION
--------	-------------

In this course we will deal with the hidden drawing drives inherent to the discipline of architecture and contemplate on the diverse semblances, these drives could take on. It intends to discover various possible correspondences between these semblances.

Rather than taking drawing as a mere bank compressing spatial data measurements, the course critically discusses and engages with theories of architectural representation that take drawing as a symbolic construction and as an embodied act. As such, it denies the classical separation between drawing and construction and works towards an expanded field that dissolves the disciplinary boundaries set in-between. In that regard, this course foremostly investigates the states of drawing as 'construction'. While discussing theories related with the idea of "unbuilt", the course tactically focuses on the esoteric realm of architecture that are particularly related with the act of drawing.

It is a hands-on class where the students are encouraged and invited to be actively involved in the embodied act of drawing with a certain level of performativity.
